FORTY-SIX NEW APPLICATIONS REPORTED AT LUNCHEON TODAY

Total Footings of 446 For Membership in Chamber of Commerce

CAMPAIGN CLOSES TOMORROW

Tomorrow at noon the campaign for membership in the new Charleroi Chamber of Commerce will be brought to an end, and in order that the occasion may be fitting one the directors have requested that every Major, every Captain and every individual team workers be present. At that time final reports will be made and a general jollification be held. The representatives of the American City Bureau have expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the progress already made, and hope that the workers who have put in so much time and have worked so hard may see their hopes realized in attaining the 500 mark.

Wednesday noon the mark reached 404, which put the campaign "over the top," and then the fight began for the 500 mark. Today there were forty-two subscriptions received, which made a total of 446. From this time on there will be no "teams" in the sense of working for results, but every worker expects to get on the job and get a sufficient number of applications to make the desired total. It promises to be a hot finish. List of names reported Wednesday:

C. W. Albright, Thos. Arrigo.

FINE COLLIE PICKED UP BY THE POLICE

The local police picked up a fine female Collie, which was running at large on the streets, and have her locked up at the borough building. The animal wears a 1920 license tag, but there is nothing to indicate to whom she belongs. If the owner will come forward and claim her she will be released otherwise the police will be compelled to dispose of her in the manner prescribed by law.

SLACKER LIST TO BE PUBLISHED

The adjutant general of the United States Army has sent an identical letter to the chairmen of all the former local draft boards which operated in the selective service in 1917, asking them to go over the Army's latest lists of draft deserters for the purpose of preventing any man from appearing wrongfully on the list.

This is the final step preliminary to publication of the names of the draft dodgers being taken by the War Department to insure the highest degree of accuracy and fairness in publishing the names of those who are held to have been deserters of the draft.

After the local boards have gone over the lists of men classed as deserters in their respective districts throughout the country, the War Department will publish them. Effort will then be made to procure the arrest of every man whose name is on the list for trial on charge of desertion.

GUN CLUB HOLDS THIRD ANNUAL SHOOT

The Iriquois Gun Club went to Sandy Plains today for their annual mid-winter shoot. Expert shooters from Washington, Greene and Fayette counties will be present and some good scores are expected.

After the contest a banquet will be served at the Hotel Mannigan, Millsboro, in honor of the club's third successful year. Those who will represent Charleroi are Fred Brady, W. P. Gaut, E. C. O'Hara, D. R. Duval, Eastman Woodward, S. L. Woodward, J. C. Albright, Justice Whitehead, W. H. Calvert, Frank Zwick and J. C. Bailey.

LIG STEEL BARGE IS ALMOST COMPLETED

The large steel barge which is being built at the Alicia Marine Ways for the Pittsburgh Steel company for transportation of coal and coke, is nearing completion and will be completed by the end of this month. The craft is the largest of its kind in the world, according to rivermen.

Pittsburgh Steel Mills To Resume on Monday

The Monessen plant of the Pittsburgh Steel company will partially resume on Monday next, at which time three open hearth furnaces, a part of the nail mill, the wire mill and rod mill will be open for work. The mill closed down on the 15th of December since which time a large number of former employees have been idle. There will be no overtime allowed, but when the mills resume it is stated it is not stated whether there will be a change in the wage rate or not. The resumption will affect 2,000 men, it is estimated, all of whom will be glad to return to work. It is said the company decided on this partial resumption in order to keep its skilled working force together, as quite a number of them were preparing to move to other localities. This resumption, however, gives promise of greater activities in the industrial lines within a comparatively short time. At the present time there are twenty-five appraisers working on the property of the steel company, placing a value on their mills and equipment.

WASHINGTON PROPOSES A 10-STORY HOTEL

A movement for the building of a $1,000,000 hotel at Washington was launched at a mass meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night. Business men have been discussing the project, but the first public announcement was made by Attorney R. G. Miller. It is planned to name the hotel "George Washington." It will be 16 stories high and contain approximately 200 guest rooms. A theatre will be built in connection with the hotel. It is proposed to secure the funds by stock sales to the people of the town.

EXPLOSION AT PATRICK MINE NEAR MASONTOWN

Two explosions of dynamite took place at the Patrick mine, near Masontown, this morning, causing about $10,000 worth of damage. The engine and boiler houses were both destroyed. County detectives are working on the case. It is alleged that the explosions were due to threats made by some of the men, when the company refused to furnish them blasting powder.

The Pittsburgh Steel company has been granted a permit to construct three ice breakers, platform for derrick and hoisting engine, and to construct an extension to the railroad trestle at Wireton. Just above the Charleroi-Monessen bridge. Work of construction on the new coal hoist at the blast furnaces is being pushed with considerable speed at the present time.

The contracting firm of Kelly & Kelley of New York have established offices in the Hotel Wilbur building, preparatory to beginning on the work of reconstruction which will transfer the structure into a banking house for the First National Bank.

A miscellaneous shower was held for Miss Anna Kamoda at her home in Stockdale Tuesday evening. The evening was spent in games, after which a delightful lunch was served.

TWO CHAIRMANSHIPS FOR WASHINGTON COUNTY

Washington county secured two chairmanships in the organization of the Assembly at Harrisburg. Senator Joseph A. Herron of Monongahela was named as chairman of the Senate committee on public supply of light, heat and water, and Dr. J. Add Synowick of Donora, was named chairman of the committee on railroads in the House. Thomas L. Pollock of Monongahela, was named as a clerk of committees.

FRICK BUYS MORE LAND AT GINGER HILL

The Frick Coke company recently bought the Brown farm at Ginger Hill, west of Monongahela, consisting of twenty acres, which will be included in the large acreage now held by the coke company. It is the purpose of the company to sink a shaft on this property, as a means of ingress for miners working in the new development, which may begin with the opening of spring.

There is considerable activity all along Mingo creek and in the Ginger Hill district, because of the contemplated development of the big tract of coal in that section of the county, and it will continue for a number of years before all plans are carried out. At the Star mine, recently purchased by the Frick interests, a great deal of work has been done in the way of cleaning up entries and beginning new openings all of which indicates increased activities when weather conditions are more propitious.

Order of President Wilson Will Have to Be Changed First

MANY DESIRABLE APPOINTMENTS

The change of the national administration, which will take place at Washington six weeks from Friday, is arousing a great deal of interest in the county as to the status and disposition of the various postmasterhips in the presidential class.

A few days ago President Wilson sent a list of 2,000 names to the Senate to be confirmed as postmasters in various towns throughout the country, but it is strongly intimated that there will be no action taken until President Harding takes his seat. The Republicans control the Senate and consequently all eleventh-hour nominations will be held over until thenew administration has had an opportunity to look over the situation and make such changes as he desires.

In Washington county there are number of desirable appointments as postmaster, the county seat leading with salary attached thereto of $3,800. Other good appointments are, California $2,200; Canonsburg $2,600; Charleroi $2,700; Donora, $2,600; McDonald $2,300; Monongahela, $2,700. In addition there are a number of towns which will pay anywhere from $1,100 to $1,600 per annum, and all of them desirable appointments.

However, the situation is somewhat complicated by the order issued by President Wilson, on March 31, 1917 which provides for appointment from civil service or by a competitive examination. Just what the incoming President will do with reference to this order has not been intimated but as Mr. Harding frankly admits his partisanship, it is possible the order will be rescinded and the "plums" given to members of the Republican party. Should such be the case the campaign for appointments will be quite animated during the early spring, and continue until all the places have been filled.

THINGS TO THINK OF

James E. Guy, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Charlottesville, Pa., who spoke at the campaign luncheon on Wednesday noon, gave his hearers a number of gems over which to ponder concerning the new organization now being formed in Charlottesville.

In the first place he said that after the organization has been effected the members must not expect to get results without work. Membership means service, and maybe sacrifice; the paid secretary, no matter what his attainments, will be powerless unless he has the hearty co-operation of the membership.

A Chamber of Commerce said the speaker, is nothing more than the crystallized thought of the community that it can do anything within reason its sets out to do, but it must have a definite program. "I Don't Know Where I'm Going, but I'm on My Way" is not a good song for a Chamber of Commerce, said the speaker. The marathon runner, when he prepares to run the race, has a definite and fixed object in view, so it is with a civic organization. It is better to try something small than to attempt something beyond the capabilities of the organization. The Chamber of Commerce will be just what the members make it, nothing more. If there is plenty of "pep" there will be lots of action, and the contrary is also true.

Another thing the speaker said, was that the young men and women, the boys and girls are the greatest asset a community can have. They are the logical successors of the people of today, and those now active and in control should ask themselves, What kind of a community are we going to leave them.

The speaker was also very complimentary to the American City Bureau, through whose auspices the present campaign is being conducted, and the address throughout was full of suggestions and advice to the workers who are to be active in the new civic organization.

President Wilson is reparing to give the country a full statement of the condition of the debt owed by Europe to this country. It will be nice to know just how much it is, and we know the president acted in good faith when the loans were made but we can't help wondering just how much we could realize in the money markets of the world on our claim.

The death of Lieut. Langdon at the hands of a Japanese sentinel is now said to have been unprovoked. But let us await the full statement from the government. It's not worth while to get "het up" over the act of a private soldier which may have been purely personal.

The inflated prices of materials and labor give the building operations of 1920 a fictitious value which is misleading. So far as quantity is concerned it was a poor year.

Remember your dead. W. S. Cook and Co. Monuments with Law-rence Dyer Funeral Director, 20817

Brewers have been very careful to brew beer with less than one half of one percent of alcohol, but the naughty, naughty sellers have added the extra alcohol of course. Likewise someone might have put it in while the beverage was in the brewery and while the foreman was not looking.

More coal probes coming. That will make another excuse to raise the price of coal. When has an investigation ever lowered the price of the commodity investigated?

Australia's Climate.

A word should correct the impression, too prevalent, that Australia is a continent of untempered heat throughout a whole year. It would be strange if a continent of Australia's size could not show every variety of climate. In Sydney's hot months, for example, a few days' journey by rail will take you to the heights of the Blue Mountains, where nights that elude for the warmth of a wood fire, and the hot day sunshine of perfect days—Exhilaration.

Origin of Word "Doll" Obscure.

The origin of the word "doll" is obscure, but the common explanation is given that the word is an abbreviation of "dolly" or "dolly," which is the gift of God; hence the idea of a gift to a child for a plaything.

A Lost Art.

An old shepherd who has just died in a village a few miles from here was unable to count beyond three. Nevertheless, he had charge of large flocks of sheep and could tell not merely when one was missing, but which particular animal had disappeared. The old man was unwilling to explain how he did it, and the secret had died with him.—Leighton Buzzard correspondent, London Daily Mail.

Grapeshot and Canister.

Grapeshot was a bunch of pellets about the size of grapes, held together in a canvas bag, or by an iron pin and a series of iron plates containing holes in which the shot rested. Canister consisted of a number of cast iron balls, a half to one inch in diameter, which were contained in one shell. Both were used in the Civil War.

Child's Idea of Rain.

Children are not naturally irreverent, though they sometimes say things that rather shock the grown-ups. A little Brooklyn girl of five was asked by her playmate what caused the rain and she replied in perfect innocence, "Don't you know? It's when God is taking a bath and splashes the water out over the tub."—Boston Transcript.

Influence of Latin Language.

English was quite a pure speech up to the year 1066; that is, it consisted only of English words and English phrases. Then, with the Norman invasion of that year, there began to come into England a language which was not English in any sense—but French. Now, French is a kind of Latin—it is Latin with the words for the most part, and the grammar and the syntax of the people of France. Latin is the very essence of the French language, and the French language is the essence of the Latin language. It is not too much to say that the French language is the Latin language, and the Latin language is the French language.

Nervous Cow and More Nervous Pig. It is little realized by the busy how the health of animals affects our own, nor how much is being done in the veterinary world on this account. There is even published a large veterinary directory, but it is not difficult to find that a bull or a horse would tolerate some patient handling when two inches set in. One veterinary has had a cow suffering from nervous shock. She could not bear anyone near her, and walked with a stiff, tremulous gait, making the motions of stepping over an obstacle before she came to it. Sodium carbonate and peaceful solitude in a darkened stall led to a complete cure. It is rather difficult to believe, but pigs also are delicate, nervous animals, and require more care than ours.

Eggs and Civilization.

The world has grown better since the discovery of the egg and the growth of civilization has kept pace with the growth of the egg-eating habit. Two contemporaneous facts, though their exact correlation may not be capable of demonstration. But from the facts of the case we may be warranted in concluding that a still greater consumption of hen's eggs would not hinder the coming of a more civilized world. Why should not the facts be correlated when the egg contains the vital principle of growth of the body and also a substance that stimulates the brain and the food that is responsible for both body growth and mental quickening? Why should we not eat more eggs and look for a higher civilization?—James Bryden.

The Dirty Stage Mirror.

Whenever a looking-glass appears in a scene in a play above a fireplace, in a spotlight or a cabinet, one is almost sure to hear somebody ask his or her neighbor why the glass has been covered with whitening or soap or something that dulls its surface completely. All sorts of reasons are hazarded or suggested. Sometimes it is stated that it is done for luck, or others that they do not intend to leave it dirty. The real explanation, however, is a simple one. The glass is dried to prevent the reflection of the scene being depicted, as it certainly would be if the audience saw in its reflection of themselves, or worse still, the reflection of the people in the wings carrying on the business of the stage.

Why Drones Are Numerous.

The great puzzle has been why did Nature create so many drones among bees, when but one ever served a definite purpose in a hive. Higher, famous bee student, has answered it by declaring that males must be numerous so that the queen in her bridal flight will have the best of chances to meet one. Were there but two or three to a hive they might miss the departure of their queen altogether, or else fail to find her on her flight. Her stay in her flight must be brief, for a sudden wind may blow her from her course or heat her to earth where, wet-winged and chilled, she would die or fall prey to a bird.

Age of the earth. It is presumed that our family of worlds came from a much older cloud of nebula, but when it is attempted to express the time in years from that era to this, the figures are meaningless; they are so vast. The remotest period of time which geology reveals shows the earth as it appears the same as it is today, with the exception of the higher forms of life. That era was a million of millions years ago, and in proportion to the history of our globe from its genesis it was hardly more than a few minutes in one day of time.

Ear Bone of Fish Lucky Charm.

The ear bones of a fish are held to be lucky, and they are alleged to soon restore the popularity of the left hand of a gambler. They are said to have some power for evil, among other things. There are many who consider that their virtue depends upon their having been a gift although he is the superstition back of them is leading him to form, for fear of first becoming selfish back in the world, a gift of old fish bones to their new ones old fish—as old as the dawn of Amharic economy.

Definite Details.

"The girl in the next table to us was away up in society. I loved her, telling the old with her that she had more prominent callers than I could attend to, and that her favored suitor drove his own car." "That's right; I know her. I'm one of her callers when I want a number, and her favored suitor stops his car when I signal the conductor."

Dog's Sense of Danger.

Perhaps the most surprising and interesting story concerning dogs is one that occurred in the writer's own town, in England. One Sunday afternoon, in August of 1917, a man proceeded to his allotment for a few hours' work. He took with him, as usual, his dog, a great pet. Toward 5 o'clock the dog grew very restive and kept trotting excitedly toward home and back again. Every while as eloquently as Balaam's ass, he was speaking his mind and saying with eyes and tail and voice and action, "Please come home." The man grew curious and consented. He had scarcely reached the shelter of his house when a number of Gothas floated over the town, dropping their deadly messengers of death. Afterward it was found that a bomb had exploded on his allotment, smashing to splinters the chair on which he usually rested. Does any one think that this man needs the recommendation of the S. P. C. A? I think not. Nor would the world at large if they simply considered the amazing and generous service which animals render to men.—Our Dumb Animals.

When Paris Was Besieged.

When the Germans closed in around Paris in 1870 the French capital was isolated from the world save by balloon communication, and very rare escapes through the walls and the lines. In the Washington Star of November 2, 1870, is printed an extract from a letter received by a Washingtonian that day from Paris by the balloon route, as follows: "We have now been 27 days invested by the German army and completely isolated from the rest of the world, so that we know little or nothing of what occurs beyond our walls. Our citizens are determined to make an energetic defense and have plenty of provisions and ammunition for several months. An army of 400,000 men is being organized here, which will be ready to co-operate with our relief forces now mustering in the provinces. M— being a National Guard, is on duty at the fortifications 24 hours out of 48."

Fox Likes the Hunt.

Old Reynard has been pursued on horse and with hounds in nearly every state east of the Mississippi, where he is found in sufficient numbers to render his hunting an object of sport. writes Dr. H. W. Shufeldt in the American Forestry Magazine of Washington. In New England and in the northeastern section generally it is considered legitimate to shoot the pursued fox at the finish, or during any part of the chase, while in Kentucky and Tennessee and other southern districts such a practice is considered highly unsportsmanlike, and would subject the perpetrator to the severest criticism from every member of the guild. Strange as it may appear, it is nevertheless true that experienced old foxes, and those that have become familiar with the ways of men, horses and hounds, seem to enjoy the fun quite as much as the hunters do.

Stick to Wooden Clothes-Pin.

About 30,000,000 feet of lumber each year is used in the manufacture of clothes-pins. There has been no improvement in the art of manufacturing clothes-pins for 40 years. The method was invented in New Hampshire, and nearly, if not all, the machines now in use were manufactured there. New Englanders have been the originators of most of the methods used in woodworking, and so far as clothes-pins are concerned have not been surpassed. For the last ten years there have been at least five inventions annually for improvements in clothes-pins submitted to the patent office, but none found any degree of favor with the housewives, who are still loyal to the old-fashioned wooden clothes-pin.

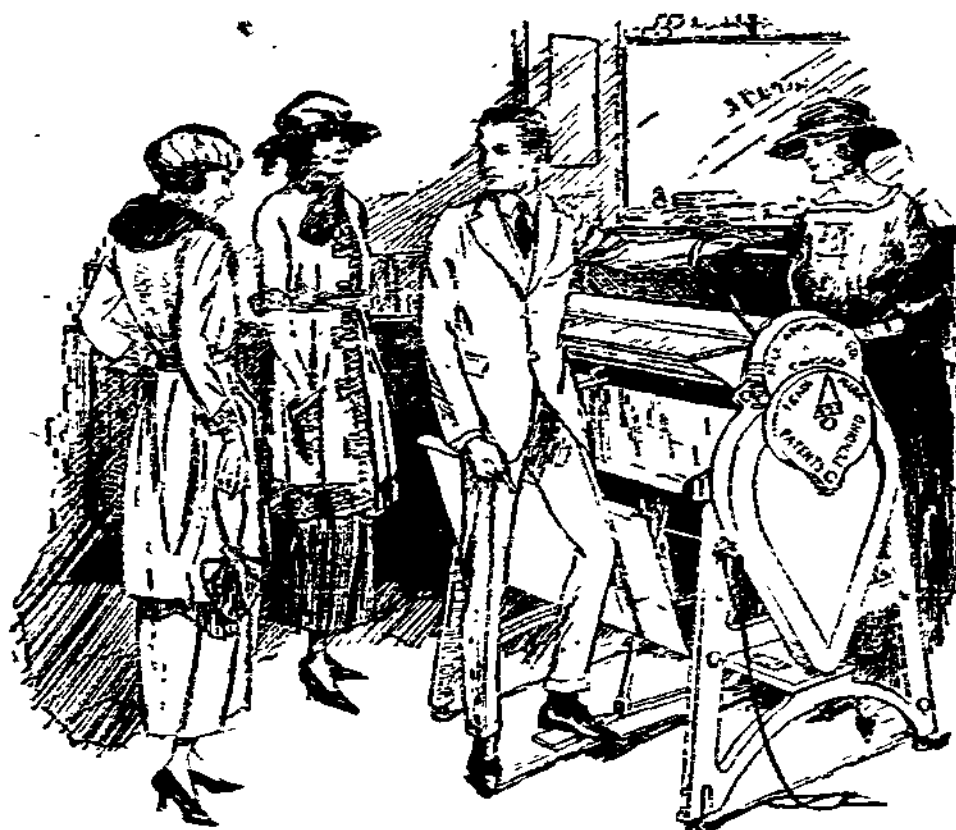

One of the most successful games for house culture is the Chinese sacred lily, a variety of the narcissus which is imported from China. Place in a dish about three inches deep, put in one and a half inches of sand, and cover with one inch of gravel, white pebbles, or broken marble. On this set the bulbs to prevent them from floating. Place them in a sunny window, and they will bloom perfectly. The flowers are white, with a yellow-tinted cup, the stems having a tuss, with from three to seven blooms. The Chinese cut away the hard skin on the top of the bulb, which seems to facilitate the growth, but in cutting, one must be careful to cut only one-eighth of an inch in depth, or the leaf growth will be injured.

The Snail and the Screw.

It is no doubt true that nearly all human inventions have been suggested by natural objects. Front of the French School of Mines points out an interesting example in the case of the screw, the fundamental idea of which, he believes, was suggested to primitive man by the spiral shape of the edible snail. It is not the shape of the shell that suggested the screw, but the spiral motion which it is necessary to give the body of the snail in order to withdraw it from the shell. This at once showed that an object of a screw shape embodied in a solid powerfully resisted attempt to withdraw it by a straight pull. The hint was enough, and the screw became one of the earliest of man's inventions.

Perfectly True.

"I thought you told me you had a pretty accurate idea of who was going to be elected." "So I had. I knew it was not going to be any of the people who had not been nominated."

The Woman God Changed!

By Donn Byrne

COLDLY—in a moment of drunken pique—a chorus girl had shot and killed a gentleman. But is this prisoner at the dock, Anna Janssen, the woman of Broadway? This superb beauty cast in the form and figure of a Norse goddess? Impossible! In the heart of every one rose the cry, "This is not the same woman." But on went the sordid trial of Anna Janssen for murder. . . . Donn Byrne, in the most dramatic story he has ever written, proves a woman can come back!

HAVE NO FAITH IN PAST PROMISES

Editor Joe T. S. Cowen is under the impression that his town is not to benefit by the improvement of the river road. He fears the politicians are going to beat Roscoe on the "show-down" and leave them stranded in the mud. In the last issue of this paper he says:

"Lo, the promises of politicians. How they squirm out of their given word. The Speers-Coal Centre road has had a change of name and now it is called the Speers-Allenport road. Thus, we of Stockdale, Roscoe and Coal Centre have been given the 'mitten.' The people of this vicinity were assured more than a year ago that work would be pushed on this road. It was to be the first one in the county to be built. Yet, during the entire year, according to the report of County Controller T. J. Underwood, the munificent sum of $135.94 has been spent by the county on this road. Of this amount $16.50 was for rail-fare; salary $5.00; hotel, $22.75; stakes, $2.30; telephone 25c; automobile hire, $26.00; securing releases of damages, $83.10."

Walking on Snow.

With the snowshoe, with its broad, latticed, rawhide bottom, served-outside in walking over soft snow, the wearer does not expect to develop much speed. Says the American Forestry Magazine. The sport consists in walking on snow so soft that, without such appendages, he would sink into it. Northern hunters in former times made their own shoes with lath and knife, and if leather things were not at hand, the little soles could be woven of bass-wood bark, which can be stripped in winter as well as in summer.

Wreath Awaits Innovator.

We are holding a wreath, contributed by an anonymous lover of the silent drama, for the director who in arranging an artist's studio set stations the model so that the artist doesn't have to look over his shoulder at her while at his easel. We know that this suggestion violates studio rules, but the director really ought to take the law of physics into consideration or else use a periscope.—Exchange.

Loved Milliner's Flowers.

It is a custom of the Alaskan Indians to deposit on the grave of a friend some of the things the man or woman had loved best in life. On one grave a milliner in Ketchikan, Alaska, recognized a long wreath of flowers as having been purchased at her shop. Each grave is covered over with a door, roof and balustrade in such manner as to resemble at a distance a little white house.

Perforation of Postage Stamps.

Forty-six perforations are made around the edge of every postage stamp. It is estimated that about 500,000,000 holes are punched every day. This means a similar number of bits of paper. They are collected, repulped and remade into sheets of paper. These are regarded so valuable by the postal authorities that barrels full of them are sold every day.

Coke as Substitute for Sandpaper.

A sandpaper substitute that has special merit for removing rust from tools without scratching is made from crushed coke. The coke is crushed to the required degree of fineness and sifted through a piece of cloth onto a piece of coarse paper, which has been coated with glue. After the glue has dried, the paper is ready for use.

A Scene of Furniture.

It was reserved to Hogarth to write a scene of furniture. The rake's levee-room, the nobleman's dining-room, the apartments of the husband and wife in "Marriage-a-la-Mode" the alderman's parlor, the poet's bed-chamber, and many others, are the history of the manners of the age.—Horace Walpole.

Tree Stumps Take New Life.

Tree stumps without foliage of any sort sometimes live and grow. English experiments have decided that in their search after means of avoiding death, the roots of felled trees will unite with the rootlets of living trees near by, and derive nourishment from them.

Paint Screens With Sponge.

Wire screens can be painted more easily and with better results than by the ordinary method of painting with a brush. If the paint is thinned and applied to the screen with an old sponge.—Edward H. Zelle, in Popular Mechanics.

The Poet Dryden.

Those well-known and often quoted lines, "None but the brave deserve the fair," are to be found in an ode which was written by Dryden on the Feast of Alexander in honor of St. Cecilia's day, which occurs three days later.

The Speaking Voice.

It is a great mistake to try and talk above noise. It is so much easier and more effective to speak below it. A full, clear tone will carry when a shrill one is not only annoying, but very tiring.

INVENTORYING

The winter months give the farmer an opportunity to take stock of his last year's successes and failures, and to turn them to good account in laying plans for the coming season.

Facts in this way brought to light may mean the dropping of a crop proved to be raised at a loss, or eliminating livestock that have been living as "boarders" on his bounty.

Progressive farmers lay their plans ahead in inventory-time. We are glad to help such farmers in their business.

Wealth is not the real prize of life; it is only a trophy, a symbol and may carry with it no satisfaction; indeed, it does not carry with it genuine, lasting satisfaction unless won and employed fairly, honestly, honorably.

Ozark's Truthful James.
There may be some long-forgotten method of achieving success that has been used for a time but we don't believe in it.
